Epiphany House Blessing

“Chalking the door” is a centuries-old custom in which Christians gather on the feast of Epiphany (January 6) to ask God’s blessing on their home. A traditional way of doing this is to take a piece of blessed chalk and inscribe the following above the entrance door at the home:

20 + C + M + B + 25

The “20 and “25” refer to the year. The “+” between the letters symbolizes the cross of Christ. The “C M B” initials have two meanings:

1. The initials represent the three Magi: Casper, Melchior, and Balthazar
2. The initials are an abbreviation for the Latin, “Christus mansionem benedicat” (May Christ bless this house).

Be sure to pick up your Home Blessing Kit, which includes a piece of blessed chalk and instructions, near the church entrances.

WE ARE ALL EVANGELIZERS

(and whatever else is on Deacon Eric's mind)

Time is Precious, Handle with Care

I hope everyone had a great Christmas and a wonderful time bringing 2024 to its' conclusion. But now, for most people, it's back to work time. All the fun of the last couple weeks is in the rear-view mirror. Children are back to school and the daily routines have kicked backed in. For some, adults and kids alike, they are refreshed after some time off and for others it's a matter of downtrodden faces and the need to get back to the grind.

Each new year brings it's hopes and dreams, while the disappointments of the previous year are put aside. We try to look ahead with optimism at the beginning of each year and the Catholic Church will do that by celebrating a jubilee year of hope in 2025. A Jubilee year is celebrated every 25 years with a specific prayer focus. This time it is on hope and I think all of us can agree that we can use more of that in 2025. The Church celebrates that will be filled with festivities in Rome, and throughout the world. The Lansing Diocese's plan, for example, is to include a jubilee Mass at Jackson Field, home of the Lansing Lugnuts, and from there, a Eucharistic procession to the Cathedral.

I thrive on hope, but this time of year I also take notice of how precious time is. There were several funerals in the St. Joe families in December, for example, meaning time with loved ones had run out. All of my out-of-state grandchildren will have gathered here at my home by the time this is printed. The last time all my kids were together was at my ordination in 2019. That means all of their children under the age of five had never met each other until this visit. The time with them will be/was precious.

There were even outside influences this year on my reflections of time. I just went to see a movie called "Homestead." I didn't know it at the time, but the movie served as the opening episode of the streaming TV series of the same name. Without giving away the whole story line, the story focuses on a self-sustaining Homestead in the Rocky Mountains as a shelter from a disaster that might be making its way after nuclear bombs were set off by terrorists just off the Los Angeles coast. Many story lines developed in the movie, but to my point today, how will the people live, how will they use their time, knowing a nuclear cloud may be on the horizon.

And there was one sad but poignant story about time in the Detroit Free Press on Christmas Day. It was about a son who was overjoyed that he was given field passes for the Detroit Lions - Chicago Bears game last week. He asked his Dad to join him on the field before the game, but while they were on the field Dad had a heart attack. An off-duty paramedic, with a team AED, shocked the non-beating heart into rhythm, and the son was able to have a final conversation with his father on the way to the hospital, but Dad later passed away on the operating table. In his grief, the son was effusive in thanking the paramedic for giving him a precious extra five hours with Dad.

Let's value our time with grandkids, parents and grandparents. As we pray for hope with Pope Francis in 2025, let us all be prepared for our time. All time is precious.

During the last several weeks we have made a concerted effort to educate every parishioner about the campaign. We want to continue answering any questions you might have and ask for your participation. We need everyone's help in order to reach our target.

Did you know that a blue envelope donation goes to the Educational Trust Fund? The Educational Trust Fund supports education of our school students, religious education programs and RCIA.

Please consider either donating to the Educational Trust Fund in the collection basket on Sunday or online at:
